

UNITED THEY STAND

CONGRESSMEN CAMPBELL AND PETERS SAY THEY CAN SOLVE HOUSING.

FOR REAL THIS TIME.

Jacob Gaffney - HousingWire Magazine

Rep. John Campbell (R-Calif.) couldn't take it anymore. He sat patiently while Tom Deutsch, the head of the American Securitization Forum, introduced him and bipartisan collaborator Rep. Gary Peters (D-Mich.) at the trade groups mid-annual meeting in Washington.

Campbell and Peters sat quietly, occasionally smiling at the crowd of 50 or so attendees. The two Congressmen were set to make a case for some legislation they plan to introduce. Legislation they say, needs to become law. Legislation that will finally fix the housing economy and usher in the long-sought return to economic prosperity.

Many lawmakers have tried what Campbell and Peters — members of the House Financial Services Committee — think they can accomplish. Many more are still trying.
